

Treatment for Men

Treatment

Testosterone may be administered, when clinically appropriate, through 1 of 2 methods, depending on the patient's needs: intramuscular injections or transdermal applications.

Intramuscular injections

Testosterone Cypionate is given by injection once every 7 to 14 days. Dosing is dependent on your age, testing results and symptoms. The testosterone injections we prescribe are only manufactured by FDA-Approved manufacturers. Testosterone injections are given in our clinics or you can self-inject at home.

Transdermal Application

Testosterone is applied to the skin using a gel or cream on a daily basis. the concentration of testosterone in the blood goes up within a few doses.
